Important Developments against the Chicago Anarchists.

DISCOVERY OF GASPIPE BOMBS

Thirty One of the Infernal Machines Found Concealed under a Sidewalk—Important Arrest of Anarchists at St. Louis.

CHICAGO, May 23.—A morning paper published to-day what purports to be the testimony of Capt. Schaack yesterday before the grand jury in relation to the instigators of the recent Haymarket slaughter. His testimony as printed is sensational in the extreme but not incredible, and it is said that developments in the next few days will prove the truth of much of it. Capt. Schaack is said to have told the following facts: [illegible] the investigation of the police department [illegible] he has witnesses to prove that prisoner Lingg had manufactured a number of dynamite bombs from [illegible] obtained at the office of the Arbeiter Zeitung. Three others were associated with Lingg, [illegible] of whom was under arrest.

The [illegible] section of the captain's testimony was listened to with breathless silence. "I think," said Schaack, "that I have got to the bottom of this business. In a couple of days I will have it all, but I want a little more time than I can [illegible]. I doubt that the anarchist conspiracy has existed for [illegible] years. There are two divisions of it [illegible] set apart for its purposes. This is called the [illegible] besides this there is an armed party [illegible] section. These drill and are trained in the use of explosives. I think I can prove that there was a well laid plan to sack and burn districts in Chicago May 4. It would have been carried out but that the anarchists lacked nerve and were unprepared for the vigorous action of the police. Men were told to set fire to certain houses in the northwestern portion of the city and others were told off to throw bombs into the police station while others were to use bombs at the meeting if the police attempted to disperse it. I think I can connect every man of the socialists now in jail with this. The houses to be burned in the northwestern section of the city were to be selected indiscriminately. The purpose of burning was to attract the attention of the police to that section and to draw them away from the main points, Haymarket square and the police stations. The early dispersal of the crowd in the square, the premature throwing of the bomb—for it was premature—and the determined resistance of the police frightened the would be incendiaries and those who were to attack the police barracks in detail."

A juror asked where the witnesses to prove this conspiracy were.

"In the lock-ups at the police stations," Schaack replied. "I can produce as many of them before the grand jury as may be deemed wise and necessary. They have confessed their complicity to me. I have explained to the state's attorney and I am acting under his instructions."

DISCOVERY OF GASPIPE BOMBS.

CHICAGO, May 23.—Ever since the night of the riot and the day following, when the search of houses was commenced, the police of the West North avenue station, and residents of the district have been finding bits of dynamite, gas pipe cartridges, and rifle cartridges in houses on the prairie and under sidewalks in their immediate vicinity. A little over a week ago a number of dynamite cartridges, wrapped up in a piece of red oilcloth were found under a sidewalk. Next a boy on Quaid avenue found some rifle cartridges and a few days after this another boy took to his mother for her inspection some fifty rounds that he had picked up on the prairie. To-day some small boys were playing ball on Roby street near the old Chicago & Pacific or Bloomingdale track when the ball went into the gutter and under the sidewalk. A boy had to crawl under and while looking for his ball found a piece of gaspipe and reported more where that came from. He told his mother and the police were notified. They searched and found under the sidewalk on the west side of Roby street and less than two feet south of the railroad track that a small hole had been scraped out. In this hole were thirty one pieces of gaspipe one and one quarter inches in diameter and eight to ten inches in length, wrapped up in a piece of red oilcloth. Of these thirty were loaded with dynamite, being stopped at the end with round blocks of wood. A fuse about eight inches in length was attached to each and all were ready for immediate use. The last piece of pipe was not loaded but seemed to have been recently cut, as oil was still upon its end.

In the hole was found two boxes of dynamite [illegible] and a few [illegible] part tin dinner pails containing a large quantity of fuse, some waterproof and some common explosives.

The outfit was taken to the Chicago avenue station. The gaspipe cartridges found were exactly similar to those captured by Capt. Schaack at Louis Lingg's house. It is believed that the stuff was placed under the sidewalk by some of the anarchists who live in the neighborhood and who feared that their houses might be searched. It is evident that the one placing it desired to use it again, from the care with which it was wrapped up.

ANARCHISTS ARRESTED AT ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, May 23.—Anarchists [illegible] H. Bergmann, Martin Frank, Otto Frick and Gottlieb Jaboro[illegible], for whom warrants were issued yesterday, were arrested to-day and jailed to await trial on a charge of having introduced and urged the adoption at an unlawful assemblage of a resolution indorsing the action of the anarchists during the Haymarket riot at Chicago. It had been stated previous to the arrest by the detectives who were working on their case that these men knew more about the whereabouts of the noted Chicago anarchist Parsons than they cared to reveal. One detective states that he knows positively that Parsons passed through a small town in Northern Kansas soon after the riot, with the intention of escaping to Canada but was obliged to change his course on account of serious delay to travel by washouts on railroads and started for the south, passing through this city on the way and conferring with his brothers while here. If this should prove to be the truth of the matter the arrests made here to-day are important and tend to substantiate the statement telegraphed from Florida that Parsons had been seen there presumably on his way to Cuba.

EASTERN NEWS ITEMS.

THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

CLEVELAND, May 23.—Officers of the general assembly of the Knights of Labor were up early this morning and at work. During the afternoon and evening the grand master workman perfected the method of procedure and order of business for the convention and attended to other duties. A number of delegates feel keenly the fact that Grand Master Workman Powderly is overworked and think that he should be assisted in some manner. Two plans have been proposed and will probably be presented at the convention. One is that state assemblies be organized in each state to look after the affairs of the districts that would come under their supervision, they in turn being auxiliary to and under the supervision of the general assembly. Each state assembly will receive instructions and supplies from the general assembly and distribute supplies as needed by districts [illegible]. Organization of new assemblies [illegible] also be part of the work looked after [illegible] the state organizations. The other plan is to have an executive board in each state subject to direction of the general board. The subject of most importance to come before the Cleveland convention is the relation of the Knights of Labor to trades unions.

GEN. SHALER'S RESIGNATION.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Military circles here are excited over the receipt from Albany of special orders announcing the acceptance of the resignation of Major General Alexander T. Shaler with instructions to brigade commanders to report direct to general headquarters until further orders. The books and records of the first division are to be turned over to the adjutant general of the state. This practically disbands the division, and indicates that for some time the vacancy will not be filled. The staff have all tendered their resignations to the proper official in Albany. The staff called on Gen. Shaler to-day and placed in his hands a letter in which they express their esteem, respect and confidence and belief that he will be able to vindicate himself before the world and justify the honorable reputation which he has held for forty years in the military service of the country and state of New York, and in the civil service of New York and Illinois.

DEATH OF STEPHEN PEARL ANDREWS.

NEW YORK, May [illegible].—Stephen Pearl Andrews died in this city Friday night, aged 74 years, after a long illness. He was born and educated in Massachusetts. He went when a young man to New Orleans and was the first counsel retained by the late Myra Clarke Gaines in the prosecution of her famous suits. He went to Texas at the time when it was an independent republic. He was a radical abolitionist, and used all his power to overthrow slavery, finally going to England to enlist the government in a scheme to buy slaves of the republic. These negotiations becoming known brought about the annexation of Texas by the United States and the war with Mexico. He spoke several languages and understood the philology of more than thirty of them.

LYNCHING THREATENED.

[illegible], May 23.—Mose Dawson, a drunken colored tough, refused to pay fare on the Owensboro & Nashville road to-night and was ejected near Russellville, Ky. As the train moved off Dawson began firing a revolver through the crowded coach. Seven shots were fired and A. G. C[illegible], a farmer, received three of them, being fatally wounded. Dawson was captured and taken to jail. Lynching is feared.

MORMON MISSIONARIES ROUGHLY HANDLED.

NEW YORK, May 22.—The Tribune's Fayette City, Pa., special says: Seven Mormon missionaries from Utah began a series of meetings at the Valley school house in Washington township one mile south of this place last Sunday. They have baptized several converts. Last night at the conclusion of the services, Park Claybaugh, justice of the peace, denounced Mormonism in a speech. He produced a glass of a solution of arsenic and challenged the preacher to drink it as he had stated in his sermon that he could do so without harm. The preacher refused and Claybaugh branded him as an impostor, and the meeting broke up in disorder. Clubs and stones were used on the missionaries, and they fled for their lives, but were so closely pursued by the mob that they implored protection of the justice, who succeeded in calming the crowd and taking the Mormons to their boarding house.

GREAT FOREST FIRE.

DETROIT, May [illegible].—A Free Press East Saginaw special says: A forest fire of immense proportions was raging yesterday all through the woods back of and adjoining Chippewa station in Clare county. People in camps have everything packed and ready to try to save what they can, but have scarcely any means of exit. The camps are located on the southwest shore of Bass lake and if it should be necessary they can go to the lake for shelter.

SPORTING NOTES.

TWENTY-FIVE MILE [illegible] CONTEST.

NEW YORK, May 22.—A large crowd assembled at Fleetwood park to-day to see a twenty five mile riding contest for $1000 and the world's championship between C. S. Anderson of California, and John Murphy of New York. Each man was allowed eight horses, changes to be made at the end of each mile. It was a very close and exciting contest throughout. On the second mile Murphy's horse burst a blood vessel and he lost much ground and on the twentieth mile Anderson broke a stirrup strap. Murphy made better time in riding but Anderson more than made up the loss by the lightning rapidity of his changes. On the last mile Anderson forged ahead at the three quarters post and won by several lengths. Time 53 minutes and [illegible] seconds. Murphy's time was four seconds slower.

FOREIGN DISPATCHES

Lord Randolph Churchill Writes to Gladstone,

AND RECEIVES A COOL ANSWER.

Fresh Fighting on the Greek Frontier—A Bad State of Affairs in Burmah—Newsy Cable Letter from Berlin—Etc.

LONDON, May 23.—Lord Randolph Churchill in a letter to Gladstone says: "I regret that I was absent from the house of commons on the occasion of your speech the 21st inst. If my reports [illegible] observe that you completely misapprehended the meaning of certain remarks of mine on recent occasions [illegible] evidently [illegible] impressive evidence [illegible] completely misstated my doctrine. My opinion that an inevitable result of establishing a parliament in Dublin such as your government proposes will be civil war harmonizes with opinions expressed by an overwhelming majority of the [illegible] of Ireland [illegible] and a most every [illegible] Ireland of exalted position and respectability. Moreover, it is the unanimous and immovable conviction of the whole [illegible] community of Ulster. A [illegible] examination of the [illegible] loyalists are [illegible] that such a parliament at Dublin will be composed mainly of national leaguers [illegible] would be more tyrannical than the [illegible]. I do not hesitate to say that should their fears be realized the loyalists would be justified in resisting by force of arms such a monstrous yoke. If the protection of the imperial parliament should be withheld [illegible] they would be [illegible] entitled to protect themselves. I do contend that parliament has no moral right to divest itself of its responsibilities toward the Ulster loyalists or transfer the allegiance of the loyalists to what [illegible] be nothing but a foreign [illegible] without the [illegible] and free consent of the loyalists themselves. Such has been my doctrine, elevated into constitutional law by the action of the [illegible] against the arbitrary government of James. Nor can it be doubted that the action of the leaguers through parliament would be far more fruitful than James would have been upon England. I never urged resistance other than a strictly constitutional one and if I had any influence I would exert it at any sacrifice to prevent the line being overstepped. I declared that in that struggle they in my opinion would be in the right and would clearly be entitled to the sympathy and support of the British people. This is what I would have tried to say in the house of commons. I feel confident that you will admit that your description of my doctrine was entirely inaccurate and erroneous and that nothing in the above is inconsistent with an ex-minister of the crown and privy councillor."

Mr. Gladstone has replied to Lord Randolph Churchill as follows: "I greatly regret if I have misinterpreted your statements. My words rested mainly on your speech in Ulster and the closing paragraph of your letter to Mr. Young, the [illegible] first. To the latter I am constrained to apply exactly the same words I expressed in parliament."

GLADSTONE USING PARTY PRESSURE.

NEW YORK, May [illegible].—Tribune's London cable: Gladstone has now definitely resolved to bring the whole pressure of party organization to bear against the independent liberals who are intending to oppose the home rule bill. To give time to allow these influences to work further delay is necessary, and the debate will be indefinitely protracted. A division is not now expected before June [illegible]st and it may probably be still further deferred. Local committees are invited to send resolutions to Westminster in favor of the bill and sitting members are to receive notice that they will be opposed if they vote against the bill and dissolution follows. A prominent member of parliament says: "The probability is that the debate will close next Friday, although the ministerial tactics are for delay. The independent liberals and conservatives desire to reach a decisive vote, and it will be difficult for Gladstone to resist. The majority as parties now stand must be against the bill. Scotch members have generally signified their determination to vote no. Gladstone by no means gives up hope and the nationalists have not lost confidence that come what may Ireland will get home rule before the close of the year."

AN EFFORT AT CONCILIATION.

LONDON, May 23.—The Gladstone committee is making a final effort to conciliate the radical deserters. The committee has made overtures to Chamberlain promising that if he abstain from voting against the home rule bill the measure will be dropped after the second reading, and that the government will then support a resolution affirming the supremacy of the imperial parliament and promising adequate protection to the Irish minority. Chamberlain's acceptance of the offer depends upon Gladstone's giving guarantees that this course will be followed.

Radical working men's clubs of London are organizing a demonstration in Hyde park in favor of the home rule bill.

GLADSTONE CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS.

NEW YORK, May 2[illegible].—London cable: Gladstone at a dinner party last Tuesday was questioned as to the success of the home rule measure and the probability, in his opinion, of getting a majority for it. "This bill," replied Gladstone, "is as sure to pass as I am sitting in this chair." Reports of the liberal whips as to the sentiment of the Gladstonites up to this time confirm the premier's confidence. Chamberlain's lobbying has had an unexpected effect in Gladstone's favor.

HOME RULE DEMONSTRATION.

LONDON, May 23.—A demonstration of radical working men was held in [illegible] London to-day. Speeches were delivered from four platforms. Resolutions were adopted favoring the home rule bill, expressing confidence in Mr. Gladstone and favoring dissolution of parliament if the home rule bill be rejected.

THE EASTERN TROUBLE.

THE ATTITUDE OF RUSSIA.

NEW YORK, May 23.—London cablegram: There is some uneasiness about news from the east. The Czar's speech at Sebastopol Thursday, though warning Europe that circumstances might force him to arm in defense of the dignity of his empire, attracted little attention, and was not interpreted as a serious menace to the peace of Europe, but followed as it was by the collision on the frontier of Thessaly between Greeks and Turks [illegible] but alarm is not [illegible] when it is remembered that the Russian minister remains at Athens. It is not believed here that the Turks began or provoked the conflict [illegible] Russia is inciting [illegible]. All the news points to peace. The great majority in the Greek chamber against Delyannis, the applause with which his defeat was received outside and the known sentiments of the people seem decisive against a dangerous outbreak.

FIGHTING ON THE FRONTIER.

LONDON, May [illegible].—Advices received here say that several engagements have taken place between the Turkish and Greek troops. The fighting is [illegible] and extends all along the frontier [illegible] miles.

LONDON, May [illegible].—A dispatch from Athens [illegible] says a truce was effected at noon to-day and there has been no fighting since that time. The casualties are heavy on both sides. An interview between the Turkish and Greek commanders has been arranged for 4 o'clock Monday morning when an endeavor will be made to arrange an armistice.

GERMANY AND FRANCE.

PARIS, May 23.—Prince Bismarck has instructed Count [illegible] Munster, German ambassador at Paris, to inform M. de Freycinet that reports of a change in the friendly sentiments of Germany toward France are without foundation.

PORTUGAL.

WEDDING PROCESSION.

LISBON, May 2[illegible].—The wedding procession in honor of the approaching marriage of Princess Amelie of Orleans and the crown prince of Portugal took place to-day and was a most brilliant affair. When the procession reached the church it was met by twelve of the oldest marquises of the kingdom who supported a canopy under which the king and queen passed to the entrance to the church. The interior of the edifice was richly decorated and 600 chandeliers brilliantly illuminated the scene. The patriarch of Lisbon officiated and at the conclusion of the service and ceremonies salutes were fired from the forts and men of war in the harbor and the bells of all the churches in the city rang out their merriest music. The Count and Countess of Paris have decided to remain in Lisbon until the [illegible] August. From here they will go to Madrid, deferring their return to France for some time.

FRANCE.

A DEAD HEAT FOR THE DERBY.

PARIS, May 23.—The French Derby was run to-day and resulted in a dead heat between Count [illegible]'s chestnut colt Upas and Baron Schickler's bay colt Sycomore. M. Lefevre's [illegible] was third. The stakes will be divided between Upas and Sycomore.

A PLEA FOR INCREASED DUTIES.

LILLE, May [illegible].—A congress of agriculturists of the north of France has adopted resolutions favoring an increase of import duties and denouncing existing commercial treaties and the prohibition [illegible] American [illegible].

BURMAH.

A BAD STATE OF AFFAIRS.

LONDON, May 22.—News from Burmah continues to show a very unsettled state of affairs in that region. Incendiarism and rebellion are spreading all over upper and lower Burmah, and numbers of leading merchants and others have been arrested on charges of complicity in insurrectionary movements. In the meantime the differences between England and China respecting suzerainty of China over Burmah continue to widen and the affairs of the two powers have never been in a more unsatisfactory condition. Unless China's claims are soon settled it looks as though England will shortly have China on her hands. The great crisis at home has so occupied the minds of Englishmen that affairs in Burmah have been forgotten for the moment, and very little has been done to avert the pending trouble.

CABLE LETTER FROM BERLIN.

An Interesting Budget of Political and General News and Gossip.

BERLIN, May 23.—The jubilee exhibition of the Berlin academy of arts opened to-day. The buildings which have been erected for the purposes of the exhibition are located in the Exhibition park and cover [illegible] square metres. Sixteen hundred [illegible] foreign works are exhibited. The emperor and Crown Prince Frederick William [illegible] interest in the exhibition. Defregger, [illegible], Werner and Piloty exhibit old works. The English section is small but it is composed of choice pictures. The crown princess [illegible] Sir Frederick Leighton, president of the British royal academy, influenced the selection [illegible] worthily represent English art. Whistler sends [illegible] portrait of Carlyle. [illegible] Millais, Leighton, Woodville, [illegible] and Crane all contribute specimens of their art. France is scarcely represented [illegible] exhibition. Notable collections are furnished by [illegible] Belgium, Sweden and Holland.

The emperor has also, as a special mark of favor, relieved from duty Herr von Ranke's son, who is captain in the [illegible] guard, so that he may be with his father. Prof. von Ranke had almost completed [illegible] before he was taken ill.

Prince Bismarck is taking much needed rest at Friedrichsruhe. His health is reported to be bad.

Kraszewski, the Polish poet, failed to return to prison at Magdeburg at the expiration of his leave the 17th inst., thereby forfeiting his bail, 2,000 marks.

The police acting under the anti-socialist law have prohibited the sale of the pamphlet "Lasses Licht Geben" and of the poems of Leopold Jacoby.

A merchant of Lubeck has bequeathed to the university of Jena the sum of 300,000 marks to found a Darwin church. Herr Heckel is administrator of the bequest.

GERMANY.

A MINOR STATE OF SIEGE.

BERLIN, May 2[illegible].—A decree establishing a minor state of siege at Spremburg will take effect on the 1st of June. Hitherto it has been confined to Berlin, Hamburg and Leipsic. Clothmakers and glass workers in the factories at Spremburg are holding strike meetings, and at these meetings there is considerable incendiary talk. The existence of this state of affairs has caused the issuance of the edict. It is reported that the police of Spremburg have been instructed to enforce the clauses of the socialist law forbidding private persons from carrying arms in the proclaimed district and that they also have been ordered to prevent the sale of socialist and other papers and pamphlets advocating strikes.

VON RANKE DEAD.

BERLIN, May 2[illegible].—Prof. Leopold von Ranke, the historian, is dead.

ENGLAND.

THE DERBY.

LONDON, May 23.—Betting on the Derby, which is to be run on Wednesday, is nine to four in favor of the Duke of Westminster's colt Ormonde. Only twice during the last half century has the Derby favorite started with similar odds. Sporting circles concur in the belief that it will be a one horse Derby and that nothing can touch the favorite.

CANADA.

AN EMBEZZLER CAPTURED.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 23.—A detective from the United States who has only very recently visited this city has captured here the ex-chief clerk of the Toledo house. The prisoner, it is said, embezzled $8600 and fled to Canada accompanied by a woman. The fugitive consented to go back without awaiting extradition papers.

HOLLAND.

SOCIALIST LEADER TO BE PROSECUTED.

THE HAGUE, May 23.—The government will prosecute for high treason Herr Nieuwenhuis, leader of the socialists and editor of their organ, because of certain comments which appeared in his paper on the occasion of the king's visit to Amsterdam.

THE REAL SAD TRUTH.

A Man who has Visited the Sick Ex-President Paints a Painful Picture.

I saw ex-President Arthur on Tuesday. I cannot tell you how shocked I was to see how he has broken. He used to weigh over 200. I doubt if he would now pull down the scales at 150. You know how neatly he dressed and how perfectly his clothes fitted him. All this is changed. He wore a dressing gown, and had shrunken away almost to emaciation. His face is of a pasty white, marking the last stages of that horrible Bright's disease. He can scarcely speak beyond a husky whisper.

I tell you it was horrible. I remembered him in the White house—courteous, graceful, the type of an American gentleman, and now this has come to [illegible]. The New York city press with unusual courtesy has let him alone, and managing editors [illegible] of their desire for news have respected the [illegible] which cannot be far away. The morbid appetite has not been fed with the tale of the ex-president's sufferings which he has borne with silence and with stoical courage. I do not like to speak of this at all, and would not except to let the ex-president's friends know the real sad truth.

Bill Nye on Jeff Davis.

From a Letter to the Indianapolis Journal.

I see that Mr. Jefferson Davis, who has recently entered the lecture field, says that there could have been no nobler cause for which to die—no opportunity more glorious for a proud and honorable death than that afforded the Confederate soldier who espoused the cause of the South twenty years ago. Looking at it in that way I ask in all candor why did not Mr. Davis improve that glorious opportunity? Feeling that way about it, why did he not remove his polonaise and die like a man? Why did he let such a thing go by in order that he might enter the lecture field and travel [illegible] old age, when he could [illegible] hung up his hoopskirt on a tree and [illegible] a way that would have endeared him to every Southern heart?

I agree with the lamented A. Ward that it would have been $5 in Mr. Davis's pocket if he had never been born, but after he was born and it was too late to consider his rash act, he should have died at as young an age as possible. With characteristic tardiness, however, he allowed himself to grow up, and then with the full knowledge, as he now admits, that the war of the rebellion afforded a beautiful opportunity for a man who yearned to die in a great and attractive way, he fritted away that golden moment and continued to destroy the high priced groceries of the despondent South.

There is certainly a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune, and Mr. Davis surely missed it when he neglected to make a funeral tableau of himself.

Good Times in Nevada.

Pittsburg Dispatch.

A senatorial election will take place in Nevada next winter. This makes business almost as brisk in that rather sparsely populated state as if a new bonanza had been struck. The members of the legislature who are sure of a re-election have greatly improved credit on their prospects, and the exceedingly limited number of voters in the state makes it tolerably certain that the dividend will go around. Several millionaires who reside in San Francisco are spoken of as possible bidders, but we have not heard of anyone rash enough to imagine that any one worth less than a million would aspire to represent Nevada in the senate. Unless the San Francisco millionaires should combine to restrict the bidding there is every probability that money will be easy in Nevada next winter.

Arbitrated Without a Strike.

Montana Christian Advocate.

"I say, waiter," shouted the impatient gentleman, "do you know that you remind me of the millennium, you're such a long time coming." "I beg your pardon, sir," replied the polite attendant, "but you also remind me of something, to wit: the American eagle—such a distance between tips, you know." The matter was straightway settled by arbitration.

WASHINGTON.

Forecast of the Coming Week in Congress.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC GRANT.

The Approaching Marriage of the President—Rosecrans Charges Butler with Selling Supplies to Rebels During the War.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The morning hours of the senate during the week will probably be occupied in work upon the miscellaneous calendar. The bankruptcy bill is unfinished business and will be laid before the senate at 2 o'clock to-morrow. Some time during the day Senator Plumb will ask that pending business be laid aside and the District of Columbia appropriation bill be taken up and passed. Probably the military academy appropriation bill, already once reported and recommitted, will again be reported and passed before the end of the week. If the caucus committee's order of business is followed the Des Moines river land bill and the open executive sessions resolutions will be taken up in turn after the bankruptcy bill is disposed of. Senators Sewall and Van Wyck will however make attempts to change this order of business, the former to call up the Fitz John Porter bill and the latter to ask consideration of the bill forfeiting railway lands.

The free ship bill and the general appropriation bill will occupy the attention of the house during the present week. The legislative appropriation bill will be taken up to-morrow afternoon, after the call of states for the introduction of bills. Its consideration will be interrupted Tuesday and Wednesday by debate on the free ship bill. There will be continued general discussion of the legislative bill and it is probable the week will expire with this measure still before the house. During the morning hours, if there should be, the [illegible] bill providing for a new naval establishment will be tested indirectly in the discussion of a resolution to [illegible] certain days [illegible] consideration.

OF INTEREST TO THE NORTHWEST.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The minority of the [illegible] lands committee [illegible] report on the bill for forfeiture of the railroad land grant between Portland and Wallula, and protecting the rights of settlers. This is virtually the Hermann bill for this purpose. The chairman of the committee, in reply to Mr. Hermann, insisted on forfeiture of the whole grant west of Bismarck and declines to favor the minority bill, even with a proviso that forfeiture of the Columbia division shall not prejudice or be deemed a waiver of further legislation as to attempted forfeitures of the remainder of the grant. In the same reply the chairman expresses the opinion that the wagon road grants patented and [illegible] are forfeitable. Replying to Hermann's assertion that settlers are being discouraged at the delay of the committee he stated that the committee had an immense work before it, and must consider each bill in its regular order.

Congressman Hermann has consulted the engineer department as to work on the upper Willamette to Eugene City and assurance was given that the new steam dredge provided for in the lower Columbia appropriation of $100,000 will be used partly in service on the upper Willamette, and that such work will be done between Harrisburg and Eugene City.

CLEVELAND'S MARRIAGE.

NEW YORK, May 23.—The World's Washington correspondent says President Cleveland told the venerable Dr. Pierce, brother-in-law of the late Vice President Hendricks, yesterday, that he would be married June 16. The wedding is to take place in Buffalo and will be private.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—Special to the Examiner from Washington: Miss Folsom and her mother left Liverpool on the 15th on the Inman line steamer City of Chicago and are due in New York Tuesday. They are consequently unaware of the death of Col. Folsom, whose funeral took place yesterday in Folsomdale, N. Y. The question which is now agitating social and upper circles is, whether on the arrival of the Folsoms the marriage of Miss Folsom and President Cleveland will not be postponed. The question has been answered in a general way that the wedding will be postponed until September if not October. This information is based upon authoritative advices received from Folsomdale to-day.

GOING TO EUROPE.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Justice and Mrs. Field sail for Europe on June 5 to be gone three months. The wife and daughter of Senator Dolph sail on the [illegible]th.

THE ROSECRANS-BUTLER FEUD.

Butler Charged with Selling Supplies to the Confederates During the War.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—There promises to be rather a sensational finale to the row which has been in active progress between Gen. Rosecrans and Butler for the past year, in regard to Butler's deficit of $120,000 as treasurer of the Soldiers' Home. Gen. Rosecrans was chairman of the military committee in the last congress which investigated the matter, and Butler, in revenge for Gen. Rosecrans's connection with the investigation, exhausted every effort to defeat the latter's confirmation as register of the treasury.

Rosecrans now proposes to make an aggressive fight on the doughty Ben and will very shortly submit a mass of evidence to the house military committee, damaging, as he alleges, to Butler's reputation. Gen. Rosecrans claims to be able to show that Gen. Butler made considerable money during the war by selling supplies to Confederates. One of the letters which will be submitted by Rosecrans is a voluntary contribution of a distinguished union officer now residing in Milwaukee.

This gentleman writes that he arrested two Virginians who were caught trading with rebels and carrying supplies to them. He was surprised when they produced passes from Gen. Butler. He, however, did not release them on the strength of these passes but detained them until he could be certain the passes were genuine. He finally received another order from Gen. Butler to release them, saying they were in the employ of the government. The writer says he is ready to appear before any investigating committee and make oath to the correctness of this statement, and he will also go further and adds a belief that the Virginians were directly in Gen. Butler's private employ.

Another gentleman, a prominent officer in Virginia, whose name Gen. Rosecrans withheld, but who was in the Confederate service, writes that he purchased quinine and other drugs from Butler through the agency of third parties and he can furnish documentary evidence that Butler knew the articles were intended for the Southern Confederacy.

Gen. Rosecrans says these letters are only a sample of those he will produce at the proper time, going to show that Gen. Butler [illegible] was unworthy of any public or private trust.

PORTLAND, MONDAY, MAY 24, 1886

A SELFISH POLICY REBUKED

The arbitrary, unjust and offensive action of the Northern Pacific railroad management last year in the matter of the Yakima townsite, has attracted the attention of congress. A dispatch of Saturday reports that the committee on Pacific railroads will ask the house to pass a resolution instructing the secretary of the interior to demand of the Northern Pacific railroad company information as to whether it had arranged its stopping places, and the running of trains so as to benefit certain towns which the directors of the company were interested in, to the injury of other towns also by what authority of law the company owns any interest in any townsite company This information the secretary is directed to submit to congress It is believed that the Northern Pacific company under its charter has no legal right to discriminate between towns, as it certainly has no right to dictate to people where they shall live and do business. It deserves for this Yakima outrage to be brought up with a round turn and put under a rigid discipline.

The managers of a railroad can make no greater mistake than that of trying to kill established towns, and to build up other towns, to boom their own real estate therein. The effort seldom succeeds, because it is arbitrary, selfish and unjust, and because every country is bigger and more important than the railroad that runs through it. There has been a good deal of this kind of effort in Oregon, and to it the hostility of the people to the railroads has largely been due At Salem, at Eugene City and elsewhere on the Oregon & California road the stations were located a little out of town with a view to making property owned by the company or its agents valuable For many years the people of the east side have suffered inconvenience and injustice, but in no case has the company gained any advantage by its petty and selfish policy.

On the west side there were two conspicuous instances of this policy. The town of St. Joseph, in Yamhill county, was laid out about half-way between McMinnville and Lafayette For ten years this place was the terminus of the west side division, but it never gained business or population and was finally abandoned, the company having suffered a dead loss of some thousands of dollars in trying to boom it.

Out of all the efforts made in Oregon by the selfish railroad policy to boom particular localities, only one permanent town has grown, that of Cornelius, in Washington county, and to this day it is hated even by those who find it to their interest to deal with or through it. Cornelius was laid out midway between Hillsboro and Forest Grove. For years the cars were run past the old towns, and all their citizens who wished to use the road were obliged to trudge to Cornelius. This, in the matter of freight traffic, was a special inconvenience, hardship and loss. Col. Cornelius was one of the parties interested in this business, and it was understood at the time that the arbitrary action of the railroad management in his favor was in return for services rendered by him in the legislature We are told that he still holds a lease or contract with the railroad giving him special privileges or advantages, which lease or contract has some eighty-seven out of ninety nine years yet to run Under this arrangement it is still complained that he is enabled to exact toll upon every pound of freight that comes to or goes from Cornelius. This business of toll-taking, with that of keeping a general country store, forms Col Cornelius's occupation in life, though in some unaccountable way he is made to pose before the people as a "granger candidate" It was the effort to make a town at Cornelius, to the injury of other places in Washington county and to the oppression of the people that retired Col Cornelius from public life over a dozen years ago

Puget sound affords a notable illustration of railroad booming Tacoma is largely a creation of the Northern Pacific company, not in its own interest but for the benefit of some of its managers who compose the Tacoma land company This organization is powerful enough to control the action of the railroad company and does it with little regard for any interest but its own. For ten years the town has been systematically boomed and has attained a considerable development under the process But it is a mushroom development without real basis or stability and if the prop of corporation favor were removed, it would dwindle at once into a mere village Even with the powerful railroad influence Tacoma has not been able to keep up with Seattle which has the natural and proper location for the city of Puget sound It is not unlikely that this inquiry to be set on foot by congress, will occasion a change of policy in which case we are likely to see Tacoma take a precipitate and undignified "tumble"

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY

The annual celebration of the queen's birthday by the British Benevolent society of this state will take place in this city this evening William the Fourth, the third son of George Third, died June 20, 1837, and, leaving no legitimate children, was succeeded by the daughter of his brother, the Duke of Kent, Princess Alexandrina Victoria, born May 24, 1819 Queen Victoria is therefore 67 years of age, and has reigned 49 years, a longer period than any sovereign of England [illegible] Henry the Third Edward Third, and George the Third The Duke of Kent died a few [illegible] after the birth of his daughter and her [illegible] brought her up in a [illegible] from the corrupt court society [illegible] She was [illegible] systematical prudent, [illegible] she was trained by an excel[illegible] Though [illegible] when she came to the throne she [illegible] with so much dignity and [illegible] taste, good sense and [illegible] Wellington said that if she had been his own daughter he could not have [illegible] her part better At the great [illegible] of the coronation which was celebrated June 28, 1838, Marshal Soult represented France and was cheered everywhere Lord Melbourne was prime minister of the crown when Victoria succeeded Her present minister, Gladstone was then but 28 years of age Since Melbourne's day Victoria's prime ministers have been [illegible] Russell [illegible] Aberdeen, [illegible] Palmerston [illegible]

Queen Victoria was [illegible] to her cousin Prince Albert of Saxe Coburg, it was what is rare in royal marriages, a love match Prince Albert was a handsome man of fine education and excellent intellect at once a chemist, a botanist, a farmer, a man of business and a political philosopher, with a large knowledge of history, fine art, music and literature He died Dec [illegible] 1861 at the early age of 4[illegible] He was so warm a friend of peace with America that had he lived, there would have no Alabama quarrel to adjust. The married life of Queen Victoria was exceedingly happy with this pure husband and tender father Queen Victoria has six living children Albert, Prince of Wales his brothers Arthur and Alfred, and his sisters Helena, Louise and Beatrice Princess Alice and Prince Leopold died several years ago The principal events of Victoria's reign have been the rebellion in Canada and the granting of home rule, 1837 1840 the opium war with China and the dreadful Afghan war, 1840-184[illegible], the O'Connell agitation in Ireland, 1843, the Ashburton and Oregon treaties with the United States 1842 and 184[illegible], the repeal of the corn laws, 184[illegible] the Irish rebellion of 1848 the Crimean war, 1854-56 the Indian mutiny and war with China in 1857 the disestablishment of the Irish church, the extinction of the civil disabilities of the Jews the settlement of the Alabama claims the war with Egypt and Soudan and the passage of the enlarged franchise bill.

The early years of Victoria's reign were conspicuous for the introduction of the electric telegraph, the application of steam to railway travel and trans-atlantic navigation, the organization of the penny post and the great English railway system. The Cunard line was established in 1840; the penny post in 1839, and the railways from London to Liverpool and Birmingham were opened in 1837 and 1838. The reign of Victoria has been conspicuous for its fertility in statesmen, scientists and men of letters who include such men as Macaulay, Peel, Hood, Palmerston, Russell, Derby, Bright, Cobden, Disraeli, Mill, Gladstone, Bulwer, Dickens, Froude, Thackeray, Tennyson, Tyndall, Huxley, Spencer, Darwin Carlyle, Browning, George Eliot Ruskin, Owen Faraday and Arnold It has been a reign more famous for the beneficent victories of peace, the triumphs of industry, science, art and literature than it has been for the baleful splendor of successful war No great soldier has been added to English annals since Waterloo, because England has had no great war with any of her peers in warlike capacity and resource since Waterloo with the exception of the brief war in the Crimea. Her Indian and Egyptian wars have not called for a high order of military talent, and since the death of Lord Clyde England has not produced a general of superior talents, unless we except Sir Frederick Roberts, the hero of the last Afghan war. The reign of Victoria has been in the main peaceful and prosperous a reign that only needs a humane solution of the Irish problem, in the spirit if not the letter of Gladstone's great measures to crown it, as the most blessed period of material peace and plenty increased popular intelligence and refinement, that is recorded in the history of the English people And the increased and increasing humanity of English rule under Victoria, as compared with the pigheaded policy of her immediate royal predecessors stands for the difference between the rule of a drunken roue like George the Fourth, of an obstinate, arbitrary, ignorant boor like William the Fourth, and the government of a pure, sensible humane sovereign, like Victoria, who was trained to feel, think and act as a true woman before she became a queen

GOODNESS "GROWN TO A PLURISY"

Sam Jones, the tramp evangelist, recently made a furious attack upon the ladies of Baltimore for attending balls and playing "progressive euchre." He declared they were on the high road to destruction and were dragging their husbands after them. But the Rev W Kirkhus, a Protestant Episcopal clergyman, in a published card says

> When it is publicly asserted that all the ladies who took part in the charity ball or who play whist with their tired husbands, or take part in progressive euchre, or dance are 'begging to music, are 'emissaries of the devil' are "helping their husbands and families to hell," I think it is time to ask who gave to the man who makes these charges the right to sit in the judgment seat He is condemning hundreds of the purest, most noble, most self sacrificing women on the face of the earth

The argument of the reverend Jones, reduced to its lowest terms, is that because some books are immoral we should read no books at all because some people dance indecently our wives, sisters and children shall not dance at all There is not a dance practiced in the homes of reputable people that has the faintest suggestion of immodesty or immorality in the attitudes assumed during its performance it is as innocent of all suggestion of impropriety as the act of a lady who accepts a gentleman's arm as her escort in the street or to the dining room. If other dances than these are practiced they are indulged only when the intimacy of close relationship between all concerned makes the question of its propriety absurd. "Evil to him who evil thinks," and the man or woman, whose moral sense and innocence wither through such dancing as is found outside the demi-monde in America would scarcely be a safe person to invite to even the sanctified, limited and carefully guarded out-door freedom of one of the reverend Jones's Georgia camp meetings Dancing, when decently conducted under the eye of parents among friends and neighbors, is a good thing for the morals, manners and health of the young people of both sexes, John Wesley said the devil ought not to have all the good tunes the great philosopher, Descartes, defended a good dinner by asking his critic whether he supposed only knaves and fools were rightful heirs to the good things of this life, and there is no reason why dancing should be left to the vulgar and the wicked so long as the dancing is in itself neither indecent in its conduct nor instinct with the inspirations of immorality Because a silly spendthrift gambles away a fortune shall we anathematize the vast number of the world's wisest and best who have sought recreation from toil in a game of whist? Nothing that the great architect of the universe has given us can escape the serpent trail of certain natures, but innocent amusements should be no more left in the ditch with the devil than all the cheerful music should be abandoned to the devil,—a policy that the great founder of the Methodist church denounced without stint Dancing is almost universal among Episcopalians and Unitarians, it is common among Congregational families, and it is generally regarded, under proper social surroundings, as entirely healthful and innocent amusement, and in no sense a social evil.

But the bigotry of Sam Jones does not compare with the bigotry of that disgusting clerical mountebank, Talmage of Brooklyn, who the other day denounced people who read and laughed over Tom Hood's fun and Charles Lamb's gentle, refined humor He said

> They thought that the man who laughed loudest was happiest They tried repartee and conundrum and burlesque and quadrille They thought they would like to be Tom Hoods or Charles Lambs They mingled wine and music and the spectacular They were worshippers of the harlequin and the Merry Andrew and the buffoon and the jester Life was to them foam and bubble and cachinnation and roistering and grimace

The life of Tom Hood was no comedy it was a life of indomitable toil, early and late, to take care of his wife and children Hood was a pure husband, a faithful and tender father and a wise and sober man He died at 47, his [illegible] feeble body prematurely worn by [illegible] labor He never printed a line that would make the most delicate woman blush He [illegible] was pure humor without [illegible] coarseness and his poems like 'The Bridge of Sighs,' 'The Lady's Dream' and 'The Song of the Shirt' have placed his name among the [illegible] His name was a [illegible] for the poor [illegible] His life was [illegible] of honest toil and domestic purity not a comedy [illegible] Nor was the life of Lamb a comedy. [illegible] subject to periodical attacks of insanity in one of which she killed her mother Lamb devoted his life to the care of this sister he gave up the woman he wanted to marry to care for this sister He lived with her always he refused [illegible] Like Hood he never wrote a rotten or indelicate line, his spirit was gentle, manly and unselfish, and his writings will be the delight of the virtuous and refined reader as long as our literature has any existence Lamb's life was no comedy He carried a heavy cross, a cross that no light man, no selfish man would ever have consented to assume He was that rare man in this world a man who is willing to give up his dream of married love with somebody else's sister from a high sense of duty to his own, rather than let her sit alone for life with the sorrow of memory of her lucid intervals, and the sore calamity of of her darkened mind Talmage's sneer at Hood and Lamb as type-makers of "the laughter of fools that crackles like thorns under a pot," was worthy of the brute, the fool and the hypocrite that stood up in his Christian pulpit, professing to believe in the efficacy of prayer, and yet barbarously boasting "that I have tried for eight Sundays to pray for that wretch, Guiteau, but I can't do it perhaps before he is hung I may grow in grace enough to pray for him, but until then I must leave it to the old ministers, who have got so good they can do anything" Of course, if Guiteau was sane he was a just object of needed prayer, according to the example of Christ and the teachings of his religion, and if he was not sane he was not deserving of insult but of compassion And it was this sanctified mountebank, Talmage, that proposed to defame the life and writings of Hood and Lamb Such a sermon was a volcanic sunrise glow of what Hood called "magpiety" There is a virtue, a goodness, or rather a counterfeit thereof, which, as Shakespeare says, "grows to a plurisy (excess), and dies in its own too-much.' Such is the goodness of such men as Sam Jones and Talmage and all persons of their sort, who do not see that "virtue itself turns vice, being misapplied."

The ticket put forth by the "modern whigs" is not just the ticket that every scratcher will want but it may be accepted as the basis upon which a good many ballots will be formed In as much as every ticket this year will be dealt with by the scratcher, the ticket of the "modern whigs," itself based on the indefensible right to scratch, will be subjected to the scratcher's ordeal It is certain, however, the spirit in which this ticket has been put forth represents the general idea and purpose of no small body of voters, who are thoroughly tired of the exclusive and selfish methods of ring rule

If Professor Sumner, of Yale college, should die to-morrow "Gail Hamilton" would be found written on his heart That acute and vivacious woman would surely have been the death of a less thick-skinned person long ago, for in the last number of the North American Review she seems to use the free-trade professor as a sort of anvil on which to beat out her ideas. There is a shower of sparks all the time under this brilliant woman's blows, but they are not given off from the ponderous old anvil they fly off from the fiery bolt she forges so deftly with her quick, nervous strokes Sumner and Dorman B Eaton seem to be used as a sort of practice-bag for this pugnacious woman as is, just as prize fighters pummel a sack of sand in their training These men wear all the earmarks of the fretful critics of men and politics that make up the civil service reform church they are very fond of shouting historical arguments that prove rather shallow when sounded by the plummet of an adversary that follows you up to the fountain head of authority to verify your facts. Eaton once recklessly pointed his obsolete horse-pistol at Gail Hamilton with the announcement that it was loaded to the muzzle with hard historical facts, but the plucky woman not only stood the noise of the report bravely but carefully picked up the wadding and examined it, and proved that Eaton's air-gun had not a single fact in it, that he used a blank cartridge and had the effrontery to try and palm it off on the public as a solid shot.

Says the Willamette Farmer "The political slave votes the whole ticket and asks no questions The man of character refuses to vote for undeserving candidates." Again "They put up political jobs in Portland and organize victory or defeat by manipulating votes. Portland is an uncertain place in politics, and generally goes as a few men dictate." Still further "Any party will become at times corrupt, if its managers are allowed to rule unquestioned. That soon means a "boss" in politics and a ring to work with him The individual voter can correct party corruption if he refuses to second it."

The following are the latest figures of the strength of the French army They are taken from the book "Avant la Bataille," which was published a short time ago by the Patriotic League, and has been a sort of nine days' wonder in Paris. There are eighteen corps d'armee, comprising 450 battalions of infantry, 151 squadrons of cavalry, and 324 batteries The total effective force is said to be Officers 18,788, men 171,292, horses 200,092 guns 1,944, carriages 28 754

The more enthusiastic prohibitionists are now setting up a claim to 10 000 votes in the state This certainly is an extravagant over-estimate The vote we should say, will be from 2000 to 3000 But it will be no indication whatever of the actual strength of prohibition in the state The most that the practical men of the new party hope for is to get together the material which will serve as a substantial nucleus for future action

When Grant with Meade entered Petersburg the musketry was still hot, but the streets and the Appomattox bottom were "packed with the Confederate army" He did not send for batteries, however "I had not the heart to turn the artillery upon such a mass of defeated and fleeing men and I hoped to capture them soon."

Gen Durbin H Ward, whose death is announced, was the popular leader of the so-called Thurman faction of the Ohio democracy He was colonel of the Seventeenth Ohio regiment during the war was severely wounded, and was brevetted brigadier-general for gallant services in the field

In a recent issue "Adirondack" Murray was erroneously described as a Baptist preacher He was for a time pastor of the Park street Congregational church of Boston, one of the oldest, richest and most influential churches in that city

Chinese mothers hush their babes into affrighted silence by telling them that Cornelius is in the currant bushes, or Pennoyer is in the cellar

If "Jeems" Blaine were president there would be some lively talk to the English about the fisheries just now.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

AN INTERESTING FLOWER GARDEN.—The wealth of roses in all the gardens around the city is a wonder to strangers who are lost in admiration of so much loveliness. The climate of this section appears to be very favorable for the growth and development of the rose. In the garden at Judge Lewis's place, corner of Third and College streets, is a moss rose bush, not a climber, which is over twenty feet in hight and which will produce many hundreds of roses. In the same garden are a great many varieties of rose, some of the new and many of the old favorites. The variety of colors is wonderful: snowy white, yellow, red in all shades from the blush to almost purple, and of every size, from the tiny tea rose up. There is there also a curiosity in the shape of a green rose. It is not so handsome as the others, the petals having evidently been "improved" out and the sepals induced to multiply and fill their place. It was brought from Japan by Commodore Perry. There are many other curious plants in that old garden which has attracted the observation of all passers for many years. One of them is the Oriental poppy, the blossom of which is over six inches across and of a deep orange color, with purple blotches near the base of each petal. The blossom has only two whorls of petals, three in each, and the stalk and leaf somewhat resemble a thistle or the Italian artichoke plant. There is also a curious shrub, the Australian tamarack, which is covered with minute blossoms, so that at a distance it looks like a purple mist. The judge and his amiable wife have all their lives been enthusiastic lovers of flowers, and in early days when a rose bush cost three or four dollars and other plants accordingly, spent much to gratify their taste and delight all who could see their treasures. Their daughter, Mrs. Mann, has inherited the taste, and the large garden around their house will not fail to be an object of interest to all beholders.

STATE PRODUCTION OF BUTTER.—Present appearances would seem to indicate that the days of importing butter into Oregon, let alone butterine, oleomargarine and other nasty lubricating compounds, are past. Butter is becoming a drug in this market. The best "gilt edge" can be had in this city for 25 cents retail, and all through the valley merchants are paying only 12½ cents per pound for butter in trade. Parties can contract for their butter supply with dairymen who will agree to deliver it every week all the year round for ... cents per pound. D. Looney, of Marion county, who has a herd of fine Jersey cows, has recently attempted to place his butter with some dealer here, but, although the butter is pure gold, no one seems to have room for it. The fact is that there is a great deal more butter being made now in this state than there is a demand for, and much of it will have to be packed. If this packing were properly done there would be plenty of good butter to supply the demand all winter, but people who make only small quantities do not care to pack, but sell their product to the country stores, where in most cases it is thrown into casks, the good, bad and indifferent together, and the result is that the stuff finds its way to the bake shop or some place where it is worked over into "fresh" butter or made into butterine or some other horrible compound. There will probably always be some fresh butter imported here from California early in the spring when the grass first starts there, but the outlook at present is that Oregon will produce more butter than it can consume, and this will result in a reduction of prices. Nobody now complains at paying 25 cents per pound for good butter, but the day is not far off when it will be had for less.

TO SURVEY CRATER LAKE.—Capt. C. E. Dutton, of the U. S. geological survey, will send a party to Crater lake this summer to explore the mysteries of that region. He expects to have all his arrangements completed during the coming month and to begin actual work about July 1st. Owing to the altitude of the lake it will not be practicable to begin sooner on account of snows and scarcity of grass for the mules used for transportation. Capt. Dutton will have a large boat and some skiffs built and transported to the lake, and lumber will be taken there to build pontoons or scows for platforms from which to take soundings. Stations will be fixed around the lake by means of which soundings can be taken on a network of lines so as to ascertain the general configuration of the bottom of the lake. Professor Condon, of Eugene, will be conferred with in regard to the scientific work of the survey. Wm. G. Steel, of this city, who has been so prominently connected with the effort to have the lake and surrounding country set aside as a national park, will be connected with the party. He is now in correspondence with the railroad and stage companies endeavoring to secure special rates for parties wishing to visit the lake. It is expected that quite a number of people will make a trip to that section this season.

NO SMOKING.—The management of the Washington street railway lines will confer a favor on the public if they will prohibit their drivers from smoking. When the front door is closed the annoyance created by smoking on the front platform is not so great, but nowadays when a draught through the car is necessary for the comfort of passengers, smoking becomes an almost intolerable nuisance to ladies. With the open cars which are run on Sunday, the smoking of foul pipes by the drivers (it occurred yesterday) is positively distressing even to ladies not over sensitive on the matter. If drivers must smoke let them do so at the end of trips. There is ample time for a great deal more smoking than is good for them.

EXPRESS COMPANY TO BE DISPLACED.—A private dispatch was received here yesterday stating that the St. Paul Pioneer Press on Saturday announced that the directors of the Northern Pacific railroad had decided to "fire" Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express from their road. This action is under the recent decision of the United States supreme court that a railroad company is not a common carrier of a common carrier, hence it is not obliged to extend facilities to express companies. The New York, Lake Erie and Western railroad is organizing its own express and W. H. Trego is officially announced as manager. It is understood that this will be the Northern Pacific's Eastern connection.

BODY RECOVERED.—A few days since the body of Peter Riddell was found just below the falls in the Little Luckiamute river, Polk county. Mr. Riddell had been missing since the 4th of April, at which time he left his home on Bird island, in the Willamette river above Independence, and after which nothing had been heard of him until his body was found by J. Smith and G. W. Hanson while fishing, lodged against a boulder in the stream. The body was taken charge of by the coroner and an inquest held. The jury returned a verdict of "death by drowning, either by accident or some other cause." The remains were buried in the Odd Fellows cemetery at Dallas.

NO BOYCOTT.—The tailors' union desire it stated that they have not attempted to boycott any firm or firms who have declined to pay the scale of prices demanded by the union, but acknowledge that they have stationed men at the doors of such establishments and that the men have followed up work that was given out in order to learn who was employed by the firms. They have not tried to drive away customers from the independent firm, hence they say the word boycott was improperly used.

THROWN FROM A BUGGY.—Yesterday evening about dusk A. M. Phillips, a French cook, very much under the influence of drink, was driving up Washington street at a furious pace in a buggy with a woman. He turned into Eighth street, but so sharply that the woman was thrown out, falling on her left side and inflicting a fearful scalp wound. Her injuries are not considered dangerous. Phillips was arrested by policeman H. Isaacs and booked for fast driving.

FAST SCHEDULE ON OVERLAND.—Beginning to-day the stage company running between the termini of the Oregon & California and the California & Oregon will shorten its schedule, and the through trip from Portland to San Francisco will be made in sixty hours. The coaches are now in excellent condition. Trains will leave Ashland at ... P. M. instead of ..., and will arrive at ... A. M. instead of 1:45.

WILL NOT PLAY UNDER WATER.—The Willamette continues steadily to rise ... In that the ground is now within about four feet of the baseball field at The Oaks. If the water continues warm the game between the ... and Stars ... will probably be the last for some weeks unless the boys play in ... which is inconvenient and very slow ... it would be best to take the adoption of several new rules.

COMING TO PORTLAND.—A. J. Mi... president of the Fry Manufacturing company, of Minneapolis, will leave that city June 4th with his family for Portland. Mr. Miller was here some time ago and expressed belief in the future of Portland. This is the advance movement no doubt towards manufacturing, and it looks as if the Eastern people were the class to inaugurate a change.

CHANGE OF OWNERSHIP.—The drug store formerly owned by E. L. Hodgin, 209 First street, between Madison and Jefferson, is now owned by John Lane, who has been managing the store for the past seven months.

OPEN LETTER NO. 5.

PORTLAND, May ...

To the laboring men of this city and county:—I am relying very largely and very confidently upon you to support me in the fight I am making for the suppression of the shameful evils which beset us on every hand. Without your earnest support I cannot hope to succeed. It is as much to your interest as to my own that I should be successful. I am right in this contest and every good citizen knows it and ought to stand shoulder to shoulder with me in the battle. Our community is overrun to a fearful extent with rum shops and gambling rooms—infernal deadfalls into which men are being continually enticed and ruined. No man's sons are insured against their destructive influence so long as they exist. They are an unmitigated curse to society, dens in which idle and vicious men loaf and lie in wait for their victims. They are the devil's hotbeds where the seeds of ruined reputations, blasted lives and fearful crimes are sown, to be watered by the tears of dishonored wives and mothers, heart broken widows and penniless orphans. Rum drinking does no man any good; it does every man who indulges in it great harm. It begins with the social glass and, if persisted in, grows into an uncontrollable habit, increases into incurable disease, and ends in disgraceful death. The man who spends money over the counter of a saloon wrongs himself, his family, his friends and his country. He robs his wife and children of every cent he thus invests and receives in return a deranged stomach, a disordered brain and wrecked nerves; in short a ruined mental, physical and moral constitution. More than one noble hearted fellow has said to me since I began this canvass, "Judge, you are right, and, while I take an occasional drink in saloons myself, I am with you in this fight and will vote for you, and I would be glad if there was not a saloon in the state." There are numbers of men in Oregon to-day, addicted to drink, who would rejoice if there were not a drop of intoxicating liquor in the state, for their temptation which they are unable to resist would be removed beyond their reach. There is but one way to remove it, and that is by the united votes of honest, patriotic citizens, and if the saloons were driven out the gambling hells would follow them. They are twin demons of social demoralization. Now, laboring men, I appeal to you in your noble manhood to rally to the rescue and sustain me in this struggle. It is a desperate one and the day of election will reveal the fact. Neither of the political conventions dared to endorse me, for fear of offending the rum power. But God, truth, right, our country's good and the best interests of society be borne onward with the struggle, and I have every confidence that your votes will win the victory, and to you will I cheerfully accord the honor, considering myself simply your humble but faithful fellow laborer in the noblest cause ever committed to our trust.

CHRISTIAN WORK FOR YOUNG MEN.

Address Yesterday by the Secretary of the International Committee.

Mr. F. W. Watkins, secretary of the international committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, which has headquarters in New York city, is visiting Portland in the interest of the local association and will aid in directing the active canvass now in progress to secure the munificent offer of Mr. W. S. Ladd, which will give a home of its own to the organization. Two addresses were given yesterday by Mr. Watkins, in the morning at the First Presbyterian church, in the evening at Grace M. E. church. Both were equally instructive and enlightening with regard to the work of the associations which is so generally attracting the favorable attention of the leading conservative clergy and business men of the country. Mr. Watkins is a pleasing, ready and forcible speaker, and in the morning made a clear, well defined statement of the condition of the cause it represents in various sections of the country and its needs and claims upon the Christian community.

The present time is unprecedented in the history of association work, in that though in general times are hard and money stringent, over twenty-five buildings are in process of erection. The church is realizing that ordinary methods are not reaching the young men of our country, and finding on close examination that fully 65 per cent. of them are not brought under church influences—never even attending church—is solving the problem by developing this organization, which has for its sole object the welfare of young men. The great advantages accruing to an association having a building of its own were fully explained, and a rousing appeal made for assistance in the project, which was briefly but ably seconded by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Lindsley.

IN THE EVENING

At Grace M. E. church the service was wholly conducted by Mr. Watkins, who took as text I John ii, 14: "I have written unto you, young men, because you are strong." The strength is in the abiding word of God; this was exemplified in the life of the founder of the association, Mr. George Williams, who only 42 years since started the work which has now grown to such proportions that a traveler may belt the globe and find in every city branches of this great society. An interesting imaginary trip, fully illustrating this fact, was given and supplemented by a statement of the situation and an appeal for co-operation.

The canvassing committee hold a meeting in Y. M. C. A. parlors this evening to report progress in the canvass.

CARD FROM JOHN COSTELLO.

To the Taxpayers of Multnomah County:—The Sunday Mercury contains an editorial as follows:

Word comes to this office too late however for investigation this week, to the effect that John Costello, the democratic nominee for assessor, was elected to that office in 1868 and after two months experience in which the work was badly neglected, his resignation was accepted by the county court.

In vindication of myself and the democracy I will simply say that there is no truth in the charge, and no one having the slightest degree of manhood in his composition would assume to impose upon the Mercury in giving a statement of this kind. Were this true would the democratic county convention have honored me again in placing me in nomination by a solid endorsement of forty-nine to twenty votes? My books at that time will show that a fair, full and impartial assessment was made irrespective of any partisan motives. Aiming at all times to equalize values, I endeavored to the best of my abilities and in accordance with a sacred oath to serve you well impartially and faithfully, reassuring you if again placed in that responsible position by your suffrages to do justice to all.

JOHN COSTELLO.

EAST SIDE NOTES.

Rev. T. A. Hull occupied the pulpit of the M. E. church yesterday in the absence of the pastor.

County Clerk Sanders was again taken with a severe attack of his old complaint yesterday, in consequence of which he is confined to his bed.

Miss Addie Campbell has just closed a very successful four months school in the Powell valley district and is now spending vacation with her parents in this city.

Next Saturday the members of the Congregational church of this city will unite with the Portland people of the same denomination in an excursion to Multnomah falls. The ticket schedule is as follows: All under 10 years free; between 10 and 14, 25 cents; between 14 and 20, 50 cents; over 20, ...

The little daughter of Perry Laugher, living on I street between Fourth and Fifth, met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon ... The child was playing upon the sidewalk when she stumbled and fell, and a needle which she held in her right hand was driven into the flesh. A physician was summoned and the needle extracted.

SECONDS THE NOMINATION.

PORTLAND, ... May ...

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Since someone has awakened to the interests of our coming city election (believing doubtless that in such election more is involved than the washing of a shirt), and placed in nomination Mr. F. Opitz for councilman on the republican ticket, I rise to second the nomination of that gentleman for the position of councilman from the first ward. Mr. Opitz has been tried and found true to the interests of the city. He belongs to no ring or faction. He knows the need of reform in our municipal government, and his election would give general satisfaction.

Since the time has arrived for smashing rings, let the taxpayers come boldly to the front and see that honest, worthy and competent persons are placed in nomination and elected at the ensuing city election. Let them show, regardless of party, for once, at least, that they are tired of such representation as has been general for some time past in the management of our city affairs.

DEMOCRAT.

FOR A FREE BRIDGE.

MT. TABOR, OR., May 2 ...

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Having been asked a great many times recently if I am in favor of a free bridge, I now desire through the columns of your paper, in answer to all such inquirers and also in reply to the Multnomah precinct committee, to say that I am in favor of a free bridge across the Willamette river, connecting the cities of Portland and East Portland, and that if elected to the office of county commissioner of this county I will do all in my power for the accomplishment of that object.

J. S. NEWELL.

WATER WANTED.

PORTLAND, 23d of May.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The residents in the growing western part of the city are much in need of a water supply and are informed by the present water company that they will not lay another foot of pipe in the city as long as action is pending before the "water committee." In the meantime the thirsty are drying out in the language of the immortal bard—

Water, water everywhere
Nor any drop to drink.

Will the committee please hasten in the matter; let us have water.

A HOLE IN THE FENCE.

This Saved the Stars from Defeat at the Hands of the Willamettes.

Mullee, the imported pitcher of the Stars, got rattled in the game with the Willamettes yesterday at the Oaks, and in the sixth inning allowed six runs to be scored. The game then stood, Willamettes 9, Stars 6, and the Willamettes were shut out in the remaining three innings. In the seventh the Stars were whitewashed. In the eighth, after two men were out, Thompson batted safely. Marsh followed with a corker to left field, which rolled outside under the fence, where some boy had removed a board, and both scored. There is a ground rule that a ball batted over either of the side fences is good for two bases, but no rule covering a ball which goes under the fence. In the ninth inning (the Stars were last at the bat) Mullee opened with a cracking two baser to centerfield. Nagle got to first on F. Smith's fumble of a hot grounder. Drummond batted safely, Mullee scoring. Calhoun brought in the winning run with a nice hit to left field.

The Willamettes are what would be called a "dick nailin' good country club," and they play ball for all there is in it. Wills pitched effectively for seven innings, only four safe hits being made off his delivery, though six men to bases on called balls is unsatisfactory. Wadlin supported him well and threw out two men at second. Tom Parrott did fine work in short field and F. Smith made a fine double play by catching a hot liner from Calhoun's bat and then stepping on third base, which Mullee had started from. Corliss played second base to perfection. C. Smith made a fine play with a throw from right field into the third baseman's hands which caught a base runner. The Willamettes looked well in their new uniforms of dark blue and white.

Barring Mullee the Stars played a strong game. Creegan threw out two men and stopped some very wild pitching, but he was weak at the bat. Cooke captured two foul flies after long runs. About the best play in the game was a throw by Drennan from left field to the home plate, putting out a man.

An excellent rule has been adopted by the local league, which will prevent pitchers from trying to hit batters. If a batter be hit above the knee by a ball from the pitcher he is given first base. The umpire, however, is the judge as to whether the batter allowed himself to be hit or whether he tried to avoid it. Frank Buechtel umpired the game with much fairness, though of course some of the crowd were dissatisfied. It may not be out of place to say that a spectator, however good a player himself and however sharp his eyes, can not see from the grand stand 300 feet distant a close play—say at first and base—as well as the umpire who is within forty feet of the base, perhaps closer. And it does not pay to "chin" an umpire. Buechtel yesterday was satisfied he was right before he made a decision, and having made it had the backbone to stick to it. Following is

THE "DUMFEEDER."

Nym Crinkle Discovers a New Idea in New York Life.

Enfranchisement of Woman and Its Effect—Makes Girls Like all the Other Fellows—Repository of Girl Secrets.

Ten to one you don't know what a "Dumfeeder" is.

Well, first of all, he's an institution of New York city. He, like a great many other things, has grown out of the social exigencies of the hour.

I encountered him a few days ago for the first time, found him duly organized, doing business regularly, and being quietly recognized as a necessity of society.

To begin at the beginning, then, you must understand that the enfranchisement of woman in New York life has broken down the barriers that surrounded Bohemia, and that charming creature, in the full enjoyment of her new liberty, is naturally inclined to take a moderate degree of license. She cannot very well have her studios, her offices, her art association, her decorative business, her esthetic pals, and her opera schools, her little academies, where she fences and boxes and tries the ballet, without falling into her lunches and late suppers and early fizzes, and hankering after her chop house and convivial moments of Dutch cheese and beer. The enfranchised girl must do as the other fellows do. She started in at Purcell's on Broadway, with the maddening doughnut and the reckless pie, washed down with the insidious milk. Then she outgrew this preliminary debauch and took to Maillard's, further down, where chocolate screened the manly sherry and caramels were the idle excuse for milk punches.

But these pastoral places do not keep late hours. There was a burning desire in the liberated darling to do something unlikely late at night. I really believe some of the belles ached to sing "I Won't Go Home Till Morning," and get up a shrill altercation with the incidental policeman.

Let them doughnut ever so wildly and drink ever so deep of the frenzied sangaree in the sunny matinee hours, the night was not theirs. They felt that one great privilege was debarred them. One-half the domain of day was reserved exclusively for the other fellows.

The inalienable right to eat late suppers in their own way was not theirs. One cruel and inexorable conventionality barred the way, to complete liberty they must have a gentleman with them in order to pass the portals of Delmonico's or the Brunswick. Man in his stubborn barbarism provides no female cafes where women alone can eat their deviled oysters and smoke their cigarettes afterwards. That privilege is reserved for man. Women may get together in their several parlors or in their studios, but when it comes to Del's at night—ha, ha—they have got to have a man.

This is where the Dumfeeder arose. He is a respectable innocent, who lets himself out to accompany ladies to respectable public restaurants in the evening. He charges from $5 to $10, according to the size of the women party. He is scrupulously clean, unexceptionally middle-aged, genteelly dressed and preposterously reticent.

When a bevy of girls want to have a modest toot at Delmonico's and do not want to be under obligations to an escort, or be forced into genteel monosyllables by the presence of a man, they send for the Dumfeeder. He puts on his dress coat and accompanies them, looking not unlike a Baptist uncle of theirs from the country. If he is well up in his business he marches into the restaurant ahead of his charges with his spring coat on his arm, wearing the air of a capitalist. He orders the waiters about, says damn sotto voce and then asks pardon, and is generally bumptious, but never pays the slightest attention to what the ladies are saying. They disregard him utterly. He is, of course, the dummy, but he gets his share of the meal.

The first Dumfeeder was a slightly decayed widower who had failed. He was recommended by the ladies of one of the art associations, and his business grew so that he died of over-eating some time a year or two ago. Deaf men are preferred, and later several middle-aged men went into the business whose hearing was defective. In fact, the occupation has during the past winter grown into something like a system, and one or two of the small restaurants, I understand, keep professional dumfeeders on hand for whom any party of ladies can make application by card in advance.

Of course, now that the thing is pretty well known among the men, there is a good deal of pique and curiosity. Nothing can be more aggravating than to see a jolly lot of girls having a good time at Delmonico's at night, utterly independent of every masculine consideration and defying all the proper escorts with their paid Dumfeeder, who quietly puts his spring overcoat on when they get through, takes his pay and leaves them respectfully on the sidewalk. The bevy will look round triumphant at the lonesome young men who saunter in, and every bright eye will flash with the assurance that at last women can have their own toot, and no thanks to the providers.

To the honor of the Dumfeeder so far, it must be said that he has not revealed anything. He is as silent as the tomb and all the girl secrets that drop into that grave are supposed to perish there. He lives an enviable luxurious life. Sleeps all day and eats all night. All that is required of him in this world is to keep his mouth shut when he isn't feeding and to carry a gold-headed cane.

Every attempt to interview him has failed to elicit a word, and yet the reporters know that he is the depository of a volume of delicious nothings. He keeps away from men as a rule, for the directors of some of the female art associations keep their eyes on him. Circumspection and silence is his motto and rule of conduct.

I believe as a rule he dies early. But the imputation recently made that the girls poison him with canned lobster when he has obtained all their secrets is without foundation, at least the lobster part, for whatever else they may be, the girls are not barbarians and would not have to resort to any such vile device as that when each one of them carries Fowler's solution in her reticule.

My own impression is that, when satiated with the idle luxury of dumb suppers, and pursued by the bitter hatred and envy of his own sex, he goes quietly up to the Ramble and commits suicide.

Be that as it may, the introduction of the Dumfeeder into the polite night life of the metropolis is working a quiet revolution. Under the guise of ostensible man the advanced girl is getting to like dry champagne. Ice cream has passed out. She gives way to her natural instincts when no longer hampered by the other sex, and instead of simpering over water ices and cress screams for Manhattan cocktails and absinthe.

But perhaps the most remarkable phase of all is the recent influx of amateur Dumfeeders. It seemed that the thing worked so well that a number of the society girls who have married useless old millionaires are now sending their husbands out to parties to act as dumfeeders without charge. A kind of husband exchange has been established up town, and it is not unusual for one of these wives to get an application from a Murray Hill gang or a Madison avenue coterie: "Can we borrow your old man to-night for a toot at D[illegible]?"

But you can see that this will break up the beautiful spirit of independence that animated the darlings when they commenced. These old married fellows will insist on paying the bills, and so far there has not been an advanced girl with stamina enough to resist that part of it. So I am afraid that the admirable womanly self reliance will all depart from the movement and in the end the worthy professional Dumfeeder will find his bread and his sweetmeats taken away by these wretched and bloated old amateurs.

M COUGHILL, P M.

Are you "all run down?" Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great building up and strengthening medicine.

COMMERCIAL.

SATURDAY, May 22.

The weather continues warm during the days and cool at night. This pushes forward all kinds of vegetation and benefits the fruit crop. If current reports and the conditions of orchards near here be any criterion some fruits will be short. Cherry trees are hardly more than half filled. Berries may yet yield well but the season promises to be a short one. Southern Oregon advices are not definite, but it is certain that some sorts will fall far short of the usual yield. Cereal crops present nothing of new interest. Some new fields of oat are being sown.

Overland receipts include car wagons 391 bdls newspaper, 25 cs, 60 kgs syrup, organs 185 cs lard, 6 cs blacking, 100 bundles, cs candy 2 cs glue, 40 bdls shovels, cs boots and shoes, 12 pumps, anvils, 1 cs hats, 11 bxs tobacco, 1 cs cigarettes, 45 bxs coffee mills, 50 cs figs, 24 pkgs raw wagon material, 1 bls twine, washing machines, cotton piece goods, 65 bxs stamped ware.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 48 hours: 2273 ctls wheat, bbls flour, 653 ctls oats, 40 ctls bran, 150 ctls mill stuff, sks potatoes, 4 10 lbs hides, eggs, butter. Also 603 ctls wheat, 557 bbls flour, 10 [illegible] 1105 lbs hides, [illegible] eggs, [illegible] sheep from the eastern section.

FREIGHTS—The closing of four ships vessels is to-day confirmed. The Kingdom of Saxony will be loaded by Sibson, Quackenbush & Co. her cargo having been [illegible] understood to be to her owners. The Undine wood is taken up by Balfour, Guthrie & Co., as also the Glenrosa iron. The [illegible] iron is closed to Sibson, Quackenbush & Co. In no instance is a rate for [illegible] but current report says 45s 6d to 46s 3d was paid for the [illegible] orders and 45s for the [illegible] continent. This business reduces the disposable list to three iron and three wood.

THE DISENGAGED TONNAGE STATEMENT.

In port—Iron, on to load	10
Finished with grain	1	04
Iron disengaged		11
Wood disengaged
On way—Due May, June	10
Due later on		40

WHEAT—Foreign advices note no improvement in the demand for distant cargoes and values are nominally no better than at coast. Chicago and New York are very firm to-day. The freight business [illegible] can have no influence upon the wheat market for shippers have loading stuff well in hand. As quotations $1 15@1 25 continue to be the best that can be given. Receipts are light and business very quiet. Walla Walla continues to be offered with but existing market competition.

FLOUR—The request continues good trade not being complaining of San Francisco shipments are light and there is a lull in foreign exportation.

MILLSTUFFS—Higher prices for bran and middlings at San Francisco results in a firmer feeling and advancing prices promise a slight advance. As it is inside prices do not attract sellers.

OATS—Supplies no more than sufficient for local and export needs but the situation warrants no change in prices. Dealers continue to secure 41@ 43c at a retail and less commission. For shipment the market is still 38@40c. The outlook is for a steady market with decided promise of better prices.

POTATOES—Very firm, choice quality easily sold at 50@60c per sack. New California are firm at [illegible]

ONIONS—No trade in Oregon. California selling at 2½c.

PROVISIONS—Some dealers reporting light stocks of home cured bacon and hams but eastern is quite plentiful at old prices. Shoulders are firmer.

DRIED FRUIT—Prices show no change but choice qualities move quickly. The request for choice apples appears to be improving.

BUTTER—Prices low because of a crowded market, no dealers quoting beyond 20c for qualities coming into their hands. The range for these is 8c to 20c. In a small way dairies do better with their best grades.

POULTRY—Chickens irregular at $2@4 50, the demand being mostly for spring. The market is well supplied with old. Ducks and turkeys in limited request; geese not called for.

EGGS—While sales are still made below 15c that figure is generally quoted and some dealers have turned away buyers who would not pay it. We quote 14@15c.

WOOL—Weak advices dull the market and buyers watch for a chance for profit. Strong holders hang back and are not offering to any extent. Usual bids do not exceed 16@18c a higher figure being quoted by none. For an average grade 15@ 16c is named, for inferior and heavy there is no prompt sale. Receipts noted for three days have been light. Not fully representing arrivals for several cars are held on the other side for shipment east. These will figure in receipts later on. Telegraphic eastern advices are of slow and easy markets, manufacturers asking only for small parcels to complete assortments. Where fair to large sized parcels have moved concessions have been the rule. Holders of wools east have lately sold at a loss, especially sellers of fine fleeces which continue the weakening tendency. The last lot of Montevideo is reported at Boston but stocks of foreign are heavy and the London sales open in less than a month.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Government bonds were dull and steady. Stocks opened steady but trading in favorite stocks at advancing prices soon carried the general market with them. Prices advanced with no reaction of importance until near the close, when a heavy realization stemmed the upward movement, and the market closed heavy close to the best figures reached. It was reported to-day that a bill had passed the house giving the St Louis & San Francisco road the right to enter Indian territory and preferred stock advanced over 3 per cent.

The Mail and Express says: Mining shares were strong but dull. Sales: Moulton $1 85; Consolidated [illegible] 45; Bulwer $ 05; Lacrosse [illegible]; Christie [illegible]; California and Virginia $1 50; Hale & Norcross $ [illegible].
